Battle-Ska Galactica prescribes aural medicine for troubled times with new single 'Doctor Doctor'

Te Whanganui-a-Tara / Wellington band Battle-Ska Galactica are back with their new single Doctor Doctor, ready to set fire to dancefloors across the country this summer.

A mid-tempo live favourite, Doctor Doctor slinks out the gate on a wave of bubbling keys and horns over an infectious skank. True to the band's style, Doctor Doctor's feel good groove has purpose—this time unpacking society's increased reliance on pharmaceuticals. Written by keyboardist/vocalist Dayle Jellyman after a stint living in New York City, the lyrics reflect on America's tendency to medicate every condition, a trend now echoing in New Zealand.

The new single precedes their long-awaited second album Get Together, which was recorded by the band across vocalist/guitarist Saali Mark's home studio in Wairarapa and Dr. Lee Prebble's legendary sound space, The Surgery in Wellington.

Blending old-school and new-school ska into a unique high-energy skank, the band unites some of the Capital's most accomplished musicians to unleash a constellation of uplifting horns, bouncing keys, multiple vocals and a blazing rhythm section.

The band channels their upbeat grooves into a two-stepping Trojan horse tackling globalisation, environmental concerns, mental health, and smashing capitalism—while partying like there's no tomorrow!

"Battle-Ska are an accomplished, tight outfit, determined to get their listeners on the floor - skanking with the best." – Niceup.org
